VillageEDOCS Provides Burke Industries with Desktop Suite of Fax Services

TUSTIN, California –, 2002 – VillageEDOCS (OTCBB: VEDO - news: www.villageedocs.com), a provider of global, enhanced Internet document delivery, announced today that Burke Industries of San Jose, California, leading producer of Resilient Flooring and Commercial Rubber Goods, has implemented VillageEDOCS' desktop services as their office automation fax solution for their customer service response group.

Burke Industries is diligently implementing new processes throughout the organization to increase productivity and lower costs. VillageEDOCS provides Burke Industries customer service representatives with the ability to respond more quickly to their client's requests by dramatically improving the efficiency of sending and receiving documents directly from their desktop computers. In addition, the VillageEDOCS desktop suite of services provides the customer service reps at Burke Industries with the all of the office automation and desktop e-document delivery functions that would usually found in an expensive network of fax servers.

“The new fax service provides us with the productivity and business process improvements needed for Burke Industries to remain successful without having to purchase expensive hardware and software systems,” said _____ at Burke Industries. “The new fax solution enables us to respond more quickly to our customer's demands.”

“Burke Industries is a great illustration of how the contracting industry can better control costs while improving the efficiencies and effectiveness of their business, avoid capital or operational investment in hardware and software systems, and synchronize their business expenses to the fluidity of their industry,” said Randy Steyer, VillageEDOCS' Vice President of Sales and Marketing. “Our solutions provide the ability to communicate to individuals or thousands with a few simple clicks.”
